

Panel eyes witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is meeting to decide on what witnesses, if any, it should call to clarify the detailed presentation of impeachment evidence it has been hearing since May 9.

The panel also may vote today on whether to subpoena more evidence in the milk fund, ITT and Internal Revenue areas of its inquiry.

Possible witnesses include John W. Dean III, President Nixon's prime accuser regarding Watergate, and ex-White House special counsel Charles W. Colson, who has said in court that

Mitchell action on Hughes called improper in report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. attorney general's secret approval of the extension of billionaire Howard Hughes' gambling empire was linked closely to a $100,000 payment by Hughes to President Nixon's closest friend, the staff of the Senate Watergate committee reports.

The report to senators said the apparent decision by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to approve Hughes' purchase of the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas violated the department's own antitrust regulations and "is clothed with the appearance of impropriety."

"Except for the fact that the pur-

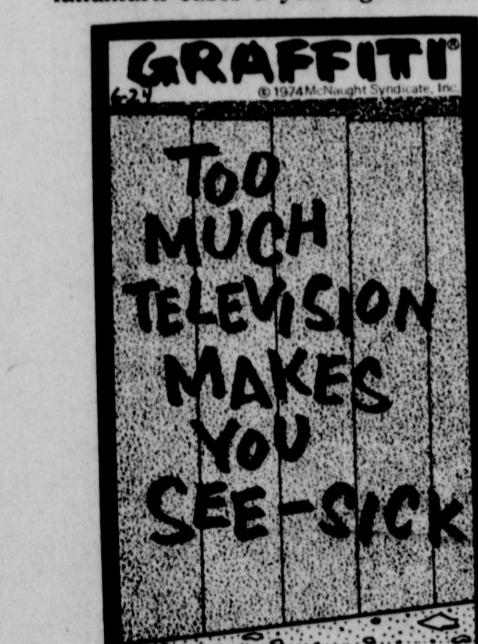

High court rules on porno juries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled that juries do not have unlimited authority to decide what is obscene in their communities.

A unanimous court determined that the film "Carnal Knowledge" is not obscene and overturned the conviction of a Georgia theater operator who showed it.

In a related 5-4 decision, the court ruled in a California case that a brochure advertising "The Illustrated Presidential Report on the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography" was hard-core material which can be banned under a federal mail law.

Justice William H. Rehnquist, who wrote the court's opinions in both cases, said guidelines delivered in five landmark cases a year ago were not

Major measures occupy Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxes, impeachment and concern over the spread of nuclear weapons to the Middle East occupy the attention of Congress this week.

The Senate is resuming debate on tax cut and tax reform measures but chances of proposals passing appear to have evaporated.

House activities include decisions on witnesses for the impeachment inquiry against President Nixon and hearings on whether nuclear power aid to Egypt and Israel could lead to development of nuclear weapons in that region.

Opponents of action on the tax proposals succeeded through filibustering and parliamentary maneuvers in preventing any substantive votes on the issues last week.

They have agreed to permit a roll call test today on a package proposal calling for a $6.6-billion income tax cut and a variety of reform measures that would raise $7 billion annually within four years from corporations and wealthy persons.

But even sponsors of the package, led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., concede it probably will be defeated.

Kennedy then hopes to break the package down into its components and get separate votes, starting with the reform provision to repeal the 22 percent oil depletion allowance.

Even if this succeeds, the different items still could be filibustered. And many oil state senators stand ready to talk at length to protect the depletion allowance.

The tax cut and tax reform measures are being offered as amendments to a debt ceiling bill, which must be sent to President Nixon by the end of the week, or the ceiling will drop to the permanent figure of $400 billion. This is $75 billion below the present debt and would cause serious financial problems for the government.

Because of the deadline, Senate leaders are expected to call off the fight on a tax cut and tax reform at some point and move to send the unamended debt ceiling bill to the White House.

The Senate is scheduled to pass today a continuing resolution to provide funds for all government departments, pending action on the appropriations bills for fiscal 1975, which begins July 1.

Congress has not cleared a single one of the required 14 bills.

Also up for Senate passage today is legislation authorizing a $3-billion emergency loan program for livestock producers.

Nixon urged him to defame Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

The witness list is expected to be short because the committee is under pressure from the Democratic caucus to make its final recommendations by July 15, party sources say.

Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., has confirmed that he favors a prompt windup, though publicly he has set no firm target date.

Another matter is what evidence should be released publicly. Most Republicans and some Democrats contend that only materials directly related to any impeachment recommendation should be disclosed.

White House counsel Leonard Garment dismissed as "idle speculation" Sunday whether Nixon would refuse to comply with a Supreme Court order to surrender further Watergate evidence.

In a televised interview, he also said it is "invalid as well as idle" to suggest that any such action would lead to a constitutional crisis.

Arguments are scheduled for July 8 on special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's chase negotiations ultimately fell through for financial reasons wholly unrelated to antitrust considerations, this is a classic case of governmental decision-making for friends," the report said.

The staff report, as yet unapproved by the full committee, was prepared after nearly a year of investigation into the payments made in 1970 to C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a Florida banker and long-time friend of the President's.

Written under the direction of assistant chief counsel Terry Lenzner, the report is the first section of a comprehensive report on the controversial Hughes-Rebozo money.

It explores the theory that a "quid pro quo" link did exist between those payments and efforts by Hughes to expand his hotel and gambling holdings in Las Vegas.

According to the report, Hughes and Robert P. Maheu, then his chief Nevada lieutenant, chose Richard Danner, a Hughes employee and former Miami, Fla., city manager, to act as political liaison with the government.

Danner was a friend of both Nixon and Rebozo, and, the report notes, became the courier who delivered the $100,000 to Rebozo in cash.

Danner told the committee that after a series of secret meetings from which antitrust attorneys were excluded, Mitchell on March 19, 1970, approved the Dunes purchase.

The report said that after Danner returned from one such meeting, "Maheu set in motion one of the two $50,000 contributions to Rebozo."

It quoted Maheu as saying there were "certain political obligations that had to be met" as the result of the Danner trip and that a Hughes lawyer had been ordered to pay out the money.

"The essential point here is that Maheu remembered a clear connection between the Danner-Mitchell meetings and the contribution to Rebozo," the committee report said.

"I remember telling Danner that we had authority from Hughes to make a commitment to help the administration in some of the congressional races they'd be interested in," Maheu testified.

"But I don't know to this day if he took the matter up with Mitchell or someone else," he said.

Mitchell, Nixon's presidential campaign manager in 1968 and for part of 1972, has denied ever discussing campaign contributions. Danner also has said he only discussed the antitrust matter with Mitchell.

In the 1973 cases, the court rejected the application of a national standard defining punishable obscenity and said instead that prosecutors may move against films and other material on the basis of community standards.

The ambiguity of community standards produced confusion in courts, and the Supreme Court did little to clarify it today.

In the Georgia case, the court noted that its 1973 decision suggested that material showing or describing normal or perverted sexual intercourse, masturbation, and excretory functions was within the range of punishable obscenity.

"While this did not purport to be an exhaustive catalog of what juries might find patently offensive, it was certainly intended to fix substantive constitutional limitations, deriving from the First Amendment ...," Rehnquist said.

The court viewed "Carnal Knowledge," a film which gained wide critical acclaim, and concluded that it did not "depict sexual conduct in a patently offensive way," Rehnquist said.

"While the subject matter of the picture is, in a broader sense, sex, and there are scenes in which sexual conduct including 'ultimate sexual acts' is to be understood to be taking place, the camera does not focus on the bodies of the actors at such times," he continued.

Find shock probation does work

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Six per cent fewer parolees return to prison for violation of shock probation in Ohio than for violation of probation after longer jail terms, an Ohio State University study reveals.

The authors of the study, Associate Professor Harry E. Allen and researcher Nancy J. Beran, conclude tentatively that shock probation generally has been successful here and should be continued.

About one in four persons sentenced to prison in the state is granted shock probation today, nearly nine years after Ohio adopted the experiment as an option for judges, Allen and Beran say.

The theory is that convicted felons who are not hardened criminals may benefit more from short exposure to prison than from long terms.

The study notes that shock parolees are likely to be persons with family or community ties who also have good prospects for employment.

France's nuclear tests

France continues its ill-advised insistence on conducting atmospheric nuclear tests despite intensive international protest. A series of blasts will be touched off on Mururoa Atoll in the Pacific, the site of testing by the French each summer since 1966.

The last series aroused great but in the end ineffectual opposition, especially in Australia and other Pacific nations. France was rightly charged with actions running counter to the prevailing worldwide sentiment for curbs on the nuclear arms race. Paris, relying heavily on the fact that France is not a signatory to the test ban treaty, bullied it through and completed the tests.

Now we are confronted with the same situation all over again. This time the French insistence on atmospheric tests seems all the worse because it follows so closely on the

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Those committee leaders

WASHINGTON — Chairman Peter W. Rodino is sick at heart over the continuing leaks that he believes are seriously jeopardizing the standing of the House Judiciary Committee. The discipline and coherence which Rodino sought to maintain at the outset of the inquiry into the impeachment of the President have been seriously eroded.

The news leaks are manna from heaven for the White House. Presidential counsellor Dean Burch went on television the other evening to say that the inability of the committee to keep documents and confidential tapes secret is proof of the committee's unreliability.

THE IRONY is that most of the leaking, according to committee sources, comes from three Democratic members who are hottest for impeachment. They do not seem to realize that their response to the pressure from newsmen is putting the chance of an impeachment resolution in serious jeopardy.

The odds have been against impeachment from the start. That is the view of a staff director who has tried to keep a detached point of view in all the turmoil surrounding the work of the committee. And they are against impeachment today in this carefully calculated view.

The leakers behave as though this were some relatively minor matter involving a federal judge instead of the most important test of law and order in the history of the nation. The newsmen press in after each secret session and the result has been a series of disclosures.

The latest disclosure of two confidential memorandums supplied by committee staffers appeared in The New York Times. They were two of a total of 14 leaked after a single session.

When his aides come to him to report on the flow out of the sieve the committee is becoming, Rodino is dismayed. He has tried to be selective in distributing memorandums and staff analyses, but there is little he can do with a committee made up of 38 men and women each representing his own district.

The leakers are especially vulnerable to pressure from their home-town newsmen since they hope for favorable treatment in the coming election campaign.

Those trying objectively to gauge the chance of an impeachment resolution were struck by the power of the Administration in the vote on the land-use bill. By 211 to 204 the House turned down the relatively mild measure providing a degree of federal participation, without sanctions, in land-use planning.

Assailed by conservatives, the measure as late as January had the support of Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton, who gave it the Administration blessing as a conservation measure.

Then the conservatives led by Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, the minority leader, turned on the heat. This was an invasion of private enterprise and the history of the landowner.

ON ORDERS from the White House, Morton switched. Here was impeachment politics designed to win over those who would stand by the President in the impeachment crunch.

To the troubles of the committee, add the Nixon television spectacular in the Middle East. He is on screen every night playing Mr. President on the news shows to cheering thousands. Against an exotic setting he promises peace and progress.

Seen by anywhere from 30 million to 40 million viewers, it takes no in-depth psychologist to see what coloration this lends to the President's authority.

Never mind if the substance of these exchanges is so slight as to be negligible, the scene changes every night and that is what counts.

Returning from the Middle East, the President, after a brief interval in Washington, will go to the Soviet Union. At least a week more of television coverage will come out of that visit with Mr. President again carrying out his mission for peace in the world.

The contrast on screen with the House Judiciary committee is daunting. Thirty-eight good men and women, they appear as uncertain stragglers divided in their views.

This may all be resolved when the hearings go public and the mass of material accumulated to date is given out. That will put an end to the leaks. But a great deal of damage has already been done and, in arriving at the final score in the House of Representatives, it cannot be discounted.

JACK ELLIOTT

Business news

Elliott promoted at Cudahy Foods

The Cudahy Foods Co., 532 Dayton Ave., has announced the promotion of Jack Elliott to the position of national sales coordinator for Italian cheese.

Elliott, who joined the Cudahy Foods Co. in 1961 as salesman, spent three years as southeastern regional sales manager at the Harrodsburg, Ky. division. He returned to the Washington C.H. plant in 1968 and received the promotion to national sales coordinator earlier this month.

Originally from Bloomingburg, Elliott and his wife, the former June Overly, have a four-year-old daughter, Jodi. They reside at 178 Hawthorne Drive.

OFFICE RELOCATES

Dewey A. Sheidler announced today that his life insurance planning service office has moved to room 209 in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building on Court Street.

Sheidler said he will be observing an open house at the new business location through July 11.

Study shows re-examinations

CHICAGO (AP) — Middle age is a time when a lot of people start thinking about doing something for themselves, and that's not all bad, says a psychiatrist.

During middle age, people evaluate their achievements, think about the time they have left and what they want to accomplish for themselves, he said.

This selfish response is not unhealthy, "depending on what you do," according to the psychiatrist, Dr. Francois Alouf.

Alouf, director of psychiatric education at Northwestern University medical school, presented his observations to newsmen at a preview screening of a Public Broadcasting Service program on "Male Menopause: The Pause that Perplexes."

Narrated by actor Norman Windom, the program touches on the problems created by a youth-oriented culture such as reaching a job plateau, getting gray and flabby, not being able to perform sexually and other middle-age anxieties.

Some men attempt to adapt to middle age by denying that they're getting older, Alouf said. These men continue to try to compete with younger men and seek to cover up their physical changes, he added.

"Middle age is mostly a state of mind," the psychiatrist observed. The changes vary from individual to individual and some men may even increase their sexual activity during middle age, he said.

Alouf said the PBS program incorporates "just about everything we know about the middle years," and noted that only in the past few years have scientific studies of this age span been conducted.

He said the program is likely to produce anxiety in persons approaching middle age or those who already are there. He was critical because it does not emphasize the positive aspects of this period and what can be done to cope.

Girl returns home after seeing prince

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Laura Jo Watkins is back home after a trip to London at Prince Charles' invitation and a spokesman for her family discounts talk of a romance between the pair.

"No, Laura Jo didn't say that they would be seeing each other again," the spokesman said Sunday. Miss Watkins, the 20-year-old daughter of Rear Adm. and Mrs. James D. Watkins, met Prince Charles at a reception here in March while he was on a stopover during a Royal Navy training cruise.

Transit vote set minus planning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is less than five months until a billion-dollar mass transit proposal goes to Los Angeles voters, who still have no idea what they'll be asked to approve.

Planners hired by the Southern California Rapid Transit District began drafting a proposal 20 months ago, but their conclusions are only vaguely defined.

They say that buses would serve only as interim modes of transportation in auto-oriented Los Angeles until the county could establish some sort of rail system. But what form that long-range system should take is the mystery.

Exclusive bus-lanes in the city and on the freeways are fine, but limited, the planners said. Los Angeles' ultimate transportation needs are for a stationary rail system.

Voters will be asked to write a blank check for an $8 billion to $10 billion proposal which may range from something like San Francisco's BART network to a transportation idea not yet off some designer's drawing board.

Legislation passed last year provides that the November ballot issue be divided into two separate proposals. If both pass, a one-cent countywide sales tax increase would be implemented.

Half of each cent would provide local funds—which the federal government would supplement with 80 per cent of costs—for transit changes. The other half-cent would be plowed into existing bus systems to continue the county's 25-cent fare pilot program through mid-1978.

Estimates are that the ballot measures would provide about $200 million in annual additional revenues, with the promise of more federal funds.

But the challenge now facing the district is to get the proposal on the ballot. That will require approval by the Southern California Association of Governments, which meets July 11 to act on it.

And the county Board of Supervisors has an Aug. 23 deadline for putting the transit measure before county voters.

But a source says the two groups are at odds, with the association fearing the costly permanence of a fixed rail proposal but apparently not satisfied with a greatly improved and expanded bus system, which the supervisors favor.

The district's proposal has created misunderstanding among city and county agencies, including Mayor Tom Bradley's office.

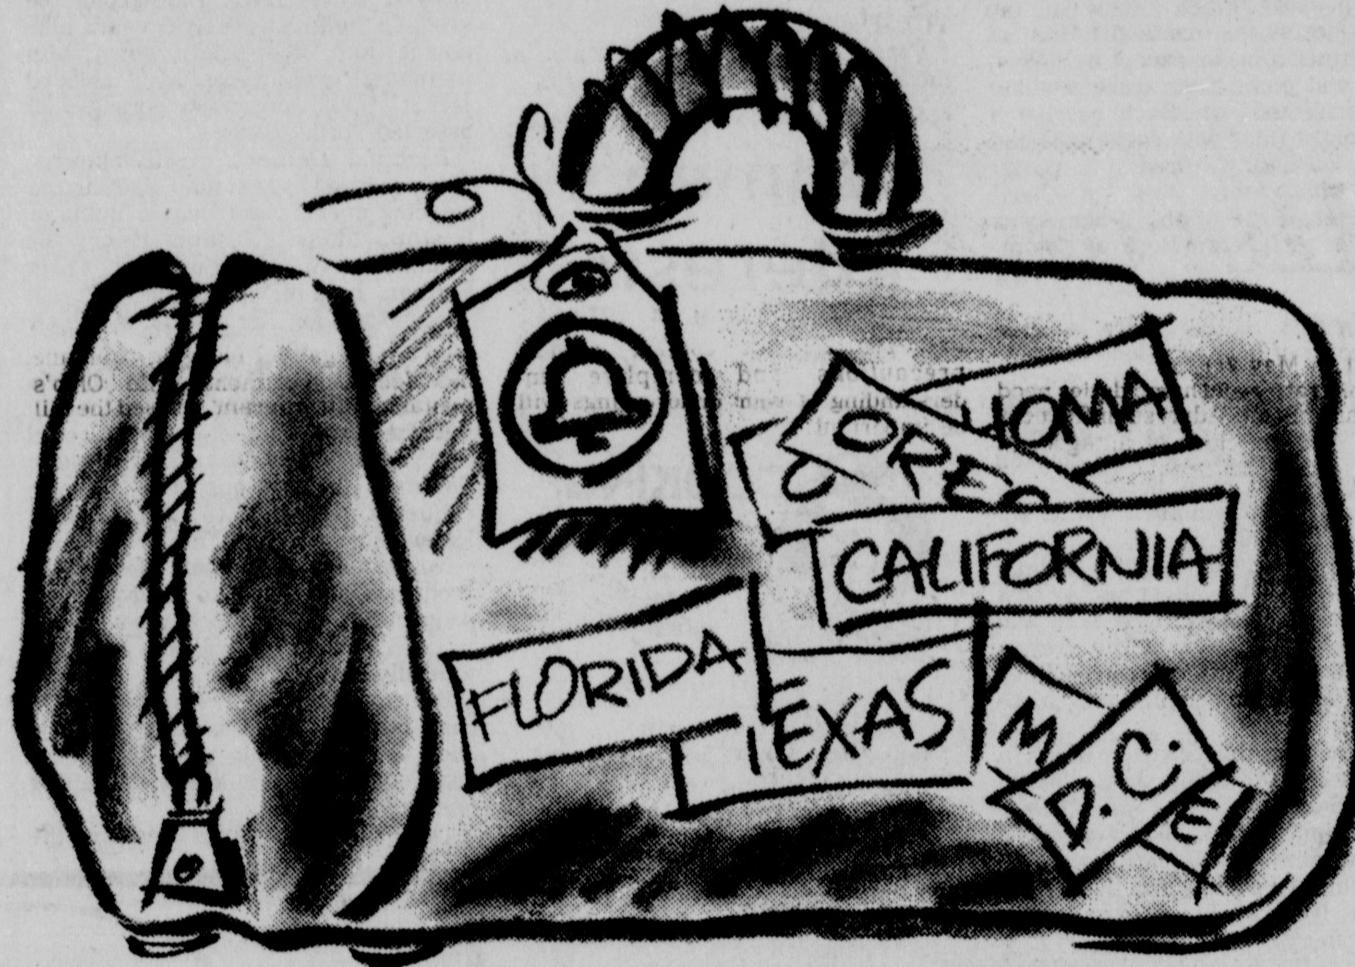

Bradley favors a 70-mile initial rail system, but the City Council torpedoed that program and told the district to "begin ... immediately" developing a long-range transit system proposal.

STUFFED SQUASH
From Jewish cuisine.
4 medium zucchini, split lengthwise
Peanut oil
1 pound lean ground beef
2 slices white bread, cut fine
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of pepper
½ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Minced parsley

Using the tip of a sturdy spoon, scoop out and reserve seeded centers from squash. Place zucchini shells in a shallow baking pan, hollow side up. Chop seeded centers fine; cook gently in 2 tablespoons peanut oil until soft — about 5 minutes. In a medium mixing bowl work together the beef, bread, salt, sugar, cinnamon and pepper. Mix water and lemon juice and add to meat mixture with the cooked seeded centers; mix well; spoon into squash shells. Brush uncovered cut sides of squash with oil. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven about 45 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Miss Kuhlwein becomes bride of Thomas J. Palmaccio

Miss Diane Kuhlwein became the bride of Thomas Joseph Palmaccio at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Gerald Wheat and Fr. David Francoeur performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kuhlwein of 204 Clearview Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Palmaccio of Lunenburg, Mass.

Candelabra and arrangements of spring flowers graced the altar. The aisles were marked with satin bows and flowers.

Mr. Garrell Leasure, organist, presented a half-hour of pre-nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Kuhlwein chose a formal gown of white silk organza designed with high duchess neckline and short puffed sleeves. The form-fitting bodice was banded at the waist with white satin ribbon. The A-line silhouette skirt flowed into a chapel length train and was accented down the center back with a wide panel of Schiffli embroidery which also accented the front of the gown from the neckline to the hem. Her Venice lace Juliet headpiece featured tiers of silk illusion veiling with lace edge. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, snow crystal Fuji pompons and lavender daisies with white satin ribbon showers.

Mrs. Doug Davis of Columbus, matron of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Donald Bullis of Boston, Mass., Miss Belinda Ramey, Miss Jo Shoemaker, Miss Janelle Donahue, all of Washington C.H., wore identical gowns of white silk organza with embossed flowers in multi-colors of the rainbow. They were designed with a Sabrina neckline with flounced edge, fitted bodice with arched waistline and full gathered skirts which featured a double flounce at the hemline. Lavender ribbon encircled the waistline of the matron of honor's gown, and blue ribbon was on the bridesmaids.

The attendants each carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers accented with daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Kuhlwein chose for her daughter's wedding a sleeveless light pink double knit princess style floor-length gown with shocking pink long-sleeved jacket. Mrs. Palmaccio, the groom's mother, wore a sleeveless blue double knit floor-length gown with matching open-weave long sleeved jacket. Both wore wrist corsages of assorted spring flowers.

Richard Demers of Lunenburg, Mass., served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Donald Bullis of Boston, Mass., Joseph Henry of Columbus, Guy Naylor and Chris Essman, both of Washington C.H.

Canning techniques

Home canning is enjoying a record high burst of popularity in Fayette County, if questions and bulletin requests coming to the County Extension Office are any indication.

Numerous news articles and radio programs are aimed to impress upon people that proper techniques are a must to prevent spoilage and botulism, a deadly toxin.

Unlike spoilage, which has a characteristic odor, botulism has no odor or change in the foods appearance. It is not killed at boiling temperatures.

These characteristics require the

The new Mr. and Mrs. Palmaccio will reside at 426½ S. Fayette St., following a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. Mrs.

Palmaccio is a senior at Ohio State University. Her husband is employed at the Mead Corporation in Washington C.H.

New recommended techniques for canning low-acid vegetables and new low-acid tomatoes will be demonstrated Tuesday, June 25, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at the Fayette County Extension Office. Gladys Kirk, County Home Economics Agent, invites the public to attend and bring their questions.

3 cited in auto mishaps

Three persons were charged with traffic offenses, stemming from accidents investigated by Washington C. H. police officers over the weekend.

An accident occurred at the intersection of Temple and Hinde streets at 12:26 p.m., between cars driven by Zollie E. Barnett, 45, Covington, Ky., and David E. Fowler, 19, of 410 N. North St.

The Barnhart vehicle incurred moderate damage and its driver was charged with disobeying a traffic signal. The Fowler auto was damaged slightly, according to police.

A hit-skip occurred at The Farm,

Columbus Avenue, at noon Sunday.

A parked car owned by Joseph E. Morgan, of Sabina, was damaged slightly when struck by an unidentified auto in the rear taillight area, police reported.

A hit-skip also occurred on Rose Avenue, near the Forest Street intersection, at 12:57 a.m. Sunday.

A parked car owned by William E. Alledge, 113 E. Elm St., was struck in the rear by an unknown driver. Damage was slight, police reported.

A car driven by Phillip B. Collie, 22, of 1022 John St., struck a parked car owned by Daniel W. Osborne, 221

Delaware, while Collie traveled south on Delaware Street at 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Moderate damage was reported to both vehicles and Collie was charged by police with reckless operation.

An accident involving cars driven by Donald E. Thornton, 26, Bloomingburg and John A. Goodwin, 34, Jamestown, occurred at 11:45 a.m. Saturday, at the intersection of S. Fayette Street and Kennedy Avenue.

Goodwin was charged by police with not maintaining an assured clear distance ahead after skidding on wet pavement and striking the Thornton vehicle in the rear.

Economy ignored good forecasts

By JOHN CUNNIF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the past few weeks there has developed very little evidence to support the consensus forecast of a sharp drop in price increases and interest rates by the end of the year.

And, since this is a repeat of the 1973 scenario, when prices seemed to defy the efforts and best intentions of those who claimed to understand what was going on, there exists today a feeling of abandonment to fate.

The federal government has largely withdrawn from direct intervention in the marketplace as a whole, although it continues sporadically its attempts to cover over the big problems, such as the threatened bankruptcy of catlemen.

The forecasts come with the old frequency but are quickly assaulted by facts. Private and government forecasters alike are beginning to find themselves out on a limb, their pleas of "wait 'til next month" sounding too shrill to be believed.

Last week the prime rate rose, against the forecasts, of course. It was foreordained by a sharp rise in business borrowing at the big New York banks, again in defiance of the forecasts.

The latest consumer price index, for May, also showed an increase in the rate of increase, to an annual rate of 13.2 per cent. It meant that consumer prices in May were 10.7 per cent over a year ago.

What does that mean in terms of wages? For some, of course, it means automatic increases because their incomes are tied to the cost of living, rising via escalator clauses to the same degree.

For millions of others, however, it means a further decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar they take home. They can buy less and less with that dollar unless they get pay raises. And so, trouble brews on that front.

In fact, the forecasts that seem most likely to be realized are those now emanating from every direction that labor will become increasingly aggressive, after a mysterious hiatus during the past year.

Medical bills are growing faster now than earlier this year. Clothing and used car prices are accelerating. Mortgage rates are rising, although the consequences are academic, since the housing market has all but expired.

It is one thing to control domestic prices through proper fiscal and monetary measures. It is an entirely different matter when the prices to be controlled are set abroad.

Both energy and food are world markets, with world demand setting the price. Since the United States imports both—as well as exports both—it cannot escape the inflationary impact.

Leningrad cellist wins competition

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Pergamenshchikov of Leningrad won the cello competition at the Fifth International Tchaikovsky Music Competition with James Craiger of Nashville, Tenn., sharing fourth place.

Second prize went to Ivan Monigetti of the Soviet Union, Hirofumi Kanno of Japan was third and Seta Baltayan of Bulgaria shared fourth.

No fifth prize was awarded by the jury, Tass said, and sixth place was shared by Angela Schwartz of Columbus, Ohio and Ivan Chiffilo of France.

Steven Don of Englewood, N.J., was one of four cellists who did not place but were awarded diplomas.

Sabina woman hurt at circus

A Sabina woman injured her leg at the Lewis Brothers Circus at the Washington Senior High School grounds, when she fell leaving the bleachers.

Phillip Hartley, 32, was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

The mishap occurred at 9:08 p.m. Saturday.

Dayton man was bitten by a St. Bernard dog while attempting to break up a dogfight Saturday.

Walter T. Cole, 39, was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated and released. The incident occurred at the Fayette County Fairgrounds, in the sheep barn.

Perk to seek help for Cleveland mall

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk said Sunday he would seek federal money to help in a $10 million project to extend the downtown mall and freeway to the top of the proposed garage east of Cleveland Stadium, the mayor said.

The proposed development would extend the convention center mall to the Cuyahoga County courthouse, over the railroad tracks and freeway to the top of the proposed garage east of Cleveland Stadium, the mayor said.

Police seek identity of traffic victim

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Police were seeking the identity today of a man killed when his car slammed head-on into a bus downtown.

The crash Sunday injured the bus driver and nine passengers, including Ferrell Williams, 26, of Cleveland who was hospitalized in fair condition with head injuries.

he was appalled by the fact that the budget for the attorney general has mushroomed to $14 million per year from some $4 million a few years ago. He stressed that this figure must be reduced. Shown with Smith in the photograph are

Three area pilots certified

Two representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration visited the Fayette County Airport Saturday afternoon and certified three area pilots for new safety flying requirements.

Otis Hess, Gene Pfaff and John Woodmansee, airport director, took off in the stormy weather for a flight proficiency check and all three were certified. Pfaff's son, who was visiting here from his home in Texas, was also certified.

The flight check included a number of difficult maneuvers which were made even more difficult by the foreboding weather. All pilots will have to have the certification by November of this year. Leo Wonderly, one of the representatives, checked out the pilots while the other, Bob Buremski, was checking the planes and equipment.

There was a constant flow of informal discussion of the common problems of the non-commercial pilots, especially those flying very light planes. It is becoming increasingly difficult for the private pilot to enter large airports.

The representatives and pilots exchanged ideas on planes, equipment, safety programs and various other matters.

Woodmansee was named by the officials as the area's district safety counselor.

Members of the Fayette County Pilots Association and airport staff found the activities and discussions very helpful and were pleased that the FAA has renewed its interest in the pilot of the light private plane.

Electric cars given tryout

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The cars worked on Sunday at the Robert Childs home in Olmsted Falls went "hmmmm" instead of "boing-boing," but it was batteries that made the wheels go around, not gasoline.

Childs is president of the Electric Vehicle Association of Ohio and held an association workshop which drew nine of the volkswagens and 40 drivers.

Gun show draws large turnout despite weather

In spite of the rain, more than 800 exhibitors set up shop at the Fairground this weekend for the June gun show and flea market.

Although attendance was slightly below normal, the traffic problem was greater than usual because cars could not be parked in many areas of the grounds. According to Kenny Craig, president of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association, 1,420 cars parked on the grounds and hundreds more lined nearby streets.

This month's competition was won by Gary Davis, of Bainbridge. The classification was for the best dovetailed arrow or spear point, and Davis presented a fine four-inch spear point of multi-colored flint.

The designer for Otis Elevator Co. owns two electric cars himself and predicts such vehicles are the coming thing, but slowly.

"How fast they catch on will depend on the government," he said. "If they say that henceforth there will be no gasoline-powered cars allowed, then these will be found very practical."

He added they make good second cars but that he doubted they ever will be a primary means of transportation.

One car doubled the typical 100-mile driving range of the electric models. That car, built by Dr. K. V. Kordes, uses hydrogen from a tank on the car's roof to feed power cells. The hydrogen reacts with oxygen to produce electricity which in turn powers the car's motor.

Childs said that one major drawback of the electric vehicles is the attention they attract. "I'm always scared to death that somebody's going to drop a set of car keys across the battery terminals and short everything out," he said.

Beyond that, he added, "you've got to know what you can do with them and how far you can go."

The heaviest normal newborn child recorded in modern times was a boy weighing 24 pounds 4 ounces, born on June 3, 1961, to Mrs. Saadet Cor of Ceyhan, southern Turkey.

Braves fall twice to Cincy

Reds regain second place

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Tony Perez was standing at home plate, waiting to lead off the 12th inning for the Cincinnati Reds.

It was the second game of Sunday's long doubleheader against Atlanta and Braves' catcher Johnny Oates was wrestling with reliever Joe Niekro's knuckleball. Perez laughed.

"You're having trouble catching it," he said, "and I'm supposed to hit it?"

Then the Reds' slugger did exactly that, sending a Niekro butterfly fluttering into the center field seats for a 2-

1 Cincinnati victory and a sweep of the doubleheader.

In the opener, Roger Nelson won his first game since May 26, 4-2, with Joe Morgan contributing three hits, including a two-run homer.

The sweep returned the Reds to second place in the National League's West Division 6½ games behind Los Angeles. It also cooled off the Braves, who dropped three straight against the Reds after winning eight of nine.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Montreal trimmed St. Louis 4-2, Chicago rapped Pittsburgh 7-3, Houston took San Diego 8-2 and Los Angeles topped San Francisco 4-3. New York's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

Cubs 7, Pirates 3

Bill Madlock's tie-breaking single keyed a four-run eighth inning that gave the Cubs their victory over the Pirates.

Astros 8, Padres 2

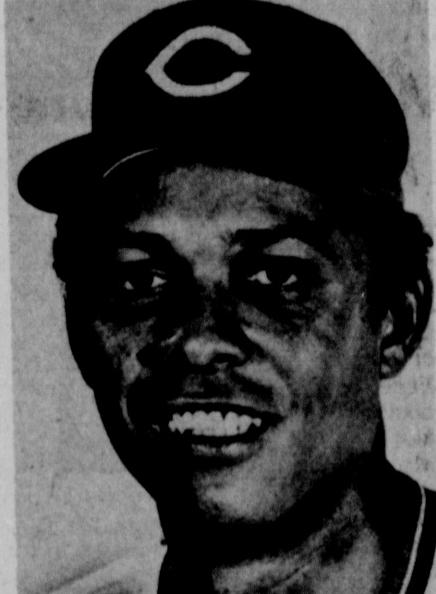

Home runs by Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson and pitcher Claude Osteen's two-run double led Houston Astros to an 8-2 rout of the San Diego Padres.

Expos 4, Cards 2

Ninth-inning singles by Tim Foli and Ken Singleton drove in the tie-breaking runs and moved Montreal past St. Louis.

Dodgers 4, Giants 3

The Dodgers battled from behind to defeat the Giants with Manny Mota's bunt single tying the score in the seventh inning and Ken McMullen's pinch single winning the game in the ninth.

TONY PEREZ

Unhealthy players lead Boston's 8-0 shutout

By The Associated Press

It's getting to be healthy to be unhealthy in Boston.

Rico Petrocelli, hobbled by a pulled hamstring muscle that has knocked him off third base and left him as the Red Sox' designated hitter, belted a pair of solo home runs Sunday.

And Rick Wise, recovering from tendinitis and a broken finger, pitched five solid innings in his first start in a month. The Rick-and-Rico combination, plus some other healthy hitting, powered Boston to an 8-0 rout of the Cleveland Indians and enabled the Red Sox to widen their American League East lead to 3½ games over the Detroit Tigers.

In Sunday's other games, New York beat the Tigers 4-1, Milwaukee walloped Baltimore 9-4, Kansas City defeated Oakland 4-1, California crushed Texas 10-2 and in a doubleheader, Chicago edged Minnesota 2-1 before the Twins tripped the White Sox 4-3.

Yanks 4, Tigers 1

Newly acquired Rudy May pitched a four-hitter and Bobby Murcer doubled home the tiebreaking run during a sixth-inning downpour in the Yankees' victory. Play began in a steady rain which got harder during the middle innings and never stopped, forcing postponement of the second game of the scheduled twinbill.

Brewers 9, Orioles 4

"It wasn't that much of a day," Darrell Porter shrugged. "Heck, I've left 10 guys on base."

Actually, Porter stranded seven runners—but he unstranded three others with one swing. He belted a first-inning grand-slam off southpaw Dave McNally that started the Brewers on their way over Baltimore.

Royals 4, A's 1

Lindy McDaniel, making a rare start, retired the first 12 Oakland batters he faced and wound up with a three-hit triumph over the A's.

Angels 10, Rangers 2

Frank Robinson and Lee Stanton made it easy for California's Andy Hassler to gain his first major league victory. They hit two-run homers in the drove four laps, or 10 miles, Saturday at an average speed of 182,500 miles per hour to claim an honor that most observers already had conceded to the legendary Foyt.

Foyt, who started No. 1 in the two previous 500-mile races this year that make up the United States Auto Club's "Triple Crown" series, had been the odds-on pole favorite when qualifying opened to select 33 starters for this $400,000 event.

But the fabled Texan blew his chances when a valve broke in his Gilmore racing team Coyote while in the midst of a run that would have dislodged Unser.

The fact that Foyt's crew replaced the ruptured engine in less than two hours didn't help. Time ran out before the threethree Indianapolis winner got another chance at the pole.

Rain washed out a final qualifying round scheduled for Sunday and track and USAC officials ordered qualifications reopened Thursday morning. That's the only day the 2.5-mile Pocono International Raceway will be open before Sunday's start. The day had been reserved for "carburetor runs"—or what amounts to a final practice session.

Officials ruled that there will be no "bumping" in the carryover session. Even if Foyt were to run 190 m.p.h. he'd still start near the rear.

Foyt criticized another car owner whose driver had taken up valuable qualifying time by running three warmup laps, then running three more under the clocks before being waved off by his crew.

Even if Foyt were to run 190 m.p.h. he'd still start near the rear.

Foyt criticized another car owner whose driver had taken up valuable qualifying time by running three warmup laps, then running three more under the clocks before being waved off by his crew.

Colbert takes American Open

It's Easy To Place A Want Ad

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "One thing was on my mind," Jim Colbert said. "I wanted it all."

"I didn't care if I was second or 95th. I wanted it all and I was willing to take some chances to get it."

The chipper, gutsy little guy got it all—the title and a $34,000 first place check—on the second hole of a four-man sudden-death playoff in the $170,000 American Golf Classic.

He got it with a routine par five after Ray Floyd's bold bid for a birdie turned into a bogey instead.

"I was playing for birdie," Floyd said of the wind-blown third shot that caught the bank of a pond guarding the green and set up the bogey that let Colbert get away with the fourth title of his career Sunday.

Moses Malone recruitment being probed

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — National Collegiate Athletic Association investigators are probing the recruiting tactics used by hundreds of colleges to acquire the services of schoolboy basketball sensation Moses Malone.

Malone reportedly told the investigators that one coach offered him $1,000 under the table to sign.

The 6-foot-11 center signed a grant-in-aid last Thursday to attend the University of Maryland.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch reported in its Sunday editions that Malone had given the NCAA investigators some damaging information on the recruiting methods of at least two schools. The newspaper said it had learned that Maryland wasn't one of them.

The NCAA investigators, Lynn Nance, a former FBI agent, and Bill Hunt, a former Texas sportswriter and a graduate of Southern Methodist University law school, arrived here Friday—just 24 hours after Malone had signed the Maryland grant-in-aid.

Nance and Hunt spent most of Friday morning with Malone and his mother, Mrs. Mary Malone, the Times-Dispatch said.

Malone refused to disclose anything about the conversation, just saying, "it was personal stuff."

Mrs. Malone, however, told friends about the conversation and one told the newspaper that, "Mrs. Malone said one coach offered Moses $1,000, which would be delivered to him through an intermediary. She also said that another coach provided him with a rental car for a period of time."

Haynie crowned in Ladies PGA

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Sandra Haynie, the second highest money winner in women's pro golf history, probably never will forget the 17th hole at Pleasant Valley Country Club. But she can smile about it now as the 20th Ladies PGA champion.

The 31-year-old Texan, whose low key belies her fierce competitiveness, survived another brush with near disaster on the 17th Sunday and won the LPGA for the second time with a 72-hole score of 288, four under par.

"This is truly a championship golf course, but I'll think of that hole for a long while," Miss Haynie said. "That hole has cost me two tournaments here and it came close to doing it again."

Nursing a one-stroke lead entering the final round, she teed off in the rain and birdied three of the first four holes. She added another on the 11th green and was six strokes ahead of runnerup JoAnne Carner, a playing partner.

Smith-Conners rivalry sizzles

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Keen personal rivalry between Stan Smith and Jimmy Connors sizzled with fresh sparks today as the great and near-great began the two-week grind in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The brassy, 21-year-old Connors, who shares the No. 1 U.S. ranking with Smith, bristled at the suggestion that Smith, in winning over the weekend at Nottingham, might finally have shaken the "Connors jinx."

"Sure, he beat me at Nottingham in the quarter-finals," Connors said. "So what? Our matches are like the ocean tide; they flow and ebb. I beat him four times and now he comes back to beat me once."

"What does that prove? Nothing. Next time could be my time. That's the way it works."

Smith's triumph at Nottingham on grass after a somewhat lack-luster season caused London's legal experts to shorten odds on the towering Californian from an original 7-1 to 9-2.

"I'm excited," Colbert said. "I'm real excited. I've won before, but this is my first on national television. It's my first on a really great golf course. It's just great. Everything is great."

Colbert, 33, had to make a scrambling par on the last hole of regulation play, chipping over a bunker to within about 18 inches of the hole, to tie Floyd, a bitterly disappointed Forrest Fezler and veteran Gay Brewer for the top spot at 281.

That's one-over-par on the unyielding, 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course, a monster of a layout turned even longer and tougher by gusty, blustery winds, chill temperatures and rough still wet and heavy from heavy rains.

It was the first time since the Colonial Invitational of 1971 that a regular tour event—not including the U.S. Open—had been won at plus-par figures. And the four-man playoff was the largest since the Kemper Open of 1971.

Fezler and Brewer dropped out with bogeys on the first extra hole, Brewer three-putting and Fezler failing from a bunker.

The victory lifted Colbert's season's earnings to $73,000. Each of the playoff losers received $13,147.

The bidding:

East South West North
Pass 1 ♦ Dble 4 ♠
Pass 5 ♦ Pass 6 ♦

Here is a remarkable hand played by Italy and Sweden in the 1967 European championship. It features exceptional bidding and exceptional play.

The Swedish North-South pair got to six diamonds on the sequence shown. South opened with a diamond and, after the Italian West doubled and North leaped to four spades, retreated to five diamonds.

North imaginatively raised to six, reasoning that South simply had to be void of spades to remove four spades to five diamonds. On that basis, thought North, his hand had much greater value than it appeared to have on the surface — and he backed his judgment by bidding six.

West (Bellentani) was of course surprised by his opponents' vigorous bidding — considering the enormous high-card strength he had—but he recognized that the slam undertaking must be largely based on distribution.

Accordingly he passed six diamonds, which was certainly the prudent thing to do, but he then came forth with the extraordinary opening lead of the king of diamonds!

No truer arrow was ever shot! Declarer ruffed two hearts in dummy but then had to lose two heart tricks to go down one.

Had Bellentani made any opening lead other than a trump, South would have made the slam quite easily. He would have ruffed three hearts in dummy and his only loser would have been a heart.

Bellentani surely had the courage of his convictions when he elected to lead the king of trumps... Undoubtedly many players holding the West hand would also have thought of leading this card, but not many would actually have done so. Perhaps that's why the Italians won the championship that year.

Presbyterian Church faces money pinch

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church today grappled with a severe financial squeeze that has drained its reserves and crimped its operations.

With reserve capital exhausted in deficit spending in the last three years to cope with shrinking income and even to meet reduced budgets, the church now faced the necessity of living on current receipts.

This was the uncertain economic picture for the 2.8-million-member denomination as its governing assembly went into the eighth day of a 10-day meeting.

Among the 725 voting delegates, the jolting financial plight, unveiled by budget officers, was a main and troubling concern.

"It's a very painful, very serious situation," said the Rev. Daniel Little of New York, a staff budget officer.

Church income has plummeted 35 per cent since 1972 and was down another 13.5 per cent for the first of this year. National mission budgets dropped from $40 million to the current $32 million in that period, propped up by use of reserves.

But these were gone now or committed, and a budget section has said the church must cut its national budget another 25 per cent for 1975 to $26 million, down $7 million.

Retardation levy approved for ballot

Day Camp funds OK'd by commission

Two major items of business were handled by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning. Both concerned the financing of proposed community programs.

The requests came from Jack Sommers, who spoke on behalf of the Fayette County Day Camp Program, and from Mrs. Frank Weade of the Board of Mental Retardation. Sommers requested funds from the commissioners. Mrs. Weade asked only that the commission certify a proposed tax levy for consideration on the November ballot.

The commissioners heard a request from Sommers, of the county extension office, for $891 to complete financing of the Fayette County Day Camp Program. The request was $96 higher than the appropriation granted by the commissioners last year, and Sommers explained that the increase could be attributed to an increase of some 10 percent in the cost of food and an increase in the cost of supplies.

In deference to other programs including the proposed veterans memorial, the commissioners agreed to finance $800 of the request. Total cost of the program is budgeted at $4,074, but the extension office which sponsors the day camp has received pledges of funds of $3,183, of which more than $2,700 is from non-local contributors.

Sommers said that no immediate source is seen for the $91 balance of the budget, but he hopes that some local businesses or organizations will be interested in contributing.

THE DAY CAMP serves 150 children from the Washington C.H. community by offering them a two-week day camp at a cost of $1 each. Activities at the camp include a physical fitness program, discussions of hygiene and personal appearance, arts and crafts, one meal and one snack each day and as much fun as possible.

The program will include 50 youngsters during each of three two-week camps. The first will be held at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church beginning July 8. Two others will be held at Eastside School in subsequent weeks. The camp will meet four days each week.

Other contributors are the church and school which have offered use of their facilities without charge; the U.S. Drug Administration, $588 for food; the Ohio State University Work-Study Program, $1,800 for salaries of the directors; the Ohio 4-H Foundation, $300; the Teaching Cooperative Extension Service, $100 for supplies; and the extension office, $65 for mileage for the staff. The participants will pay a total of $150.

THE COUNTY board of mental retardation requested that the commissioners certify for the November ballot a proposed .65 mill increase in the operating levy.

Sexual battery filed against local resident

A Washington C.H. man has been charged with the sexual battery of a Washington C.H. woman, according to city police.

Zachary H. Brown, 23, of 1209 Willard St., was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers Sunday morning, after allegedly entering a 34-year-old woman's home and crawling in bed with her, while she was half asleep, investigating officers said.

The woman jumped up and ran to a neighbor's house where police were alerted, police said.

Brown is presently incarcerated in city jail in lieu of $5,000 bond and is expected to be arraigned Monday afternoon.

Jury selection under way in kidnap trial

Jury selection in the kidnapping and extortion trial of Jay Gordon, 21, was still underway in Fayette County Common Pleas Court at noon today.

Gordon was one of three men arrested by police and sheriff's departments in connection with an alleged kidnapping of John A. Whiteside, Snowhill Rd., from the parking lot at the Armco Steel Corp. plant here Feb. 19.

The other two charged in the incident, Kenneth E. Haley, 22, of 1135 E. Paint St., and Gordon's brother Jack Lee Gordon, 20, will be tried at a later date.

Several jurors had been seated at noon.

Judge Evelyn Coffman is presiding.

The request was made in order that with voter approval the board can expand its programs to include more children in the present program and begin an adult program.

The commissioners certified the request so that the board can approach the voters by placing the millage increase on the ballot.

Four escape injury after gas explosion

A gas explosion completely destroyed a motor home valued at $11,000, by blowing out the windows and walls, but its four occupants were uninjured, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported today.

Deputies said the explosion occurred at the intersection of Ohio 38 and I-71, where the mobile home was parked, when Mrs. Willard Woodring, 46, started to light the stove.

She and her 15-year-old son, Kenneth, along with Lewis and Lillian Shafer, 71, and 76 years of age respectively, had all been en route to Tampa, Fla., from Newfane, N.Y.

Group backs Sanford for presidential bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A citizens committee has been formed to seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976 for former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

Sanford, head of the party commission drafting a charter for the mid-term Democratic convention in December, said he approved of the group but that "this is not an announcement that I am a candidate."

Sanford was an aspirant for the nomination in 1972. Formation of the committee was announced Sunday by former West Virginia Gov. Joe Holt C. Smith.

Solomon and Aristotle both sang the praises of honey.

Retardation levy approved for ballot

Day Camp funds OK'd by commission

Two major items of business were handled by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning. Both concerned the financing of proposed community programs.

The requests came from Jack Sommers, who spoke on behalf of the Fayette County Day Camp Program, and from Mrs. Frank Weade of the Board of Mental Retardation. Sommers requested funds from the commissioners. Mrs. Weade asked only that the commission certify a proposed tax levy for consideration on the November ballot.

Mayors seeking bigger role in 1976 Presidential race

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors this week is serving as a showcase for new political stars among municipal chief executives.

The Democrats especially are making plans for a bigger role in choosing their party's 1976 presidential ticket, and they wouldn't mind having a mayor on it. Included among possibilities for a vice presidential bid are mayors Kevin White of Boston and Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles.

Panel eyes witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is meeting to decide on what witnesses, if any, it should call to clarify the detailed presentation of impeachment evidence it has been hearing since May 9.

The panel also may vote today on whether to subpoena more evidence in the milk fund, ITT and Internal Revenue areas of its inquiry.

Possible witnesses include John W.

Dean III,

President Nixon's prime accuser regarding Watergate, and ex-

White House special counsel Charles W. Colson, who has said in court that Nixon urged him to defame Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

The witness list is expected to be short because the committee is under pressure from the Democratic caucus to make its final recommendations by July 15, party sources say.

Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okl., has confirmed that he favors a prompt windup, though publicly he has set no firm target date.

Another matter is what evidence should be released publicly. Most Republicans and some Democrats contend that only materials directly related to any impeachment recommendation should be disclosed.

White House counsel Leonard Garment dismissed as "idle speculation" Sunday whether Nixon would refuse to comply with a Supreme Court order to surrender further Watergate evidence.

In a televised interview, he also said it is "invalid as well as idle" to suggest that any such action would lead to a constitutional crisis.

Arguments are scheduled for July 8 on special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's

Mitchell action on Hughes called improper in report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. attorney general's secret approval of the extension of billionaire Howard Hughes' gambling empire was linked closely to a $100,000 payment by Hughes to President Nixon's closest friend, the staff of the Senate Watergate committee reports.

The report to senators said the apparent decision by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to approve Hughes' purchase of the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas violated the department's own antitrust regulations and "is clothed with the appearance of impropriety."

"Except for the fact that the purchase negotiations ultimately fell through for financial reasons wholly unrelated to antitrust considerations, this is a classic case of governmental decision-making for friends," the report said.

The staff report, as yet unapproved by the full committee, was prepared after nearly a year of investigation into the payments made in 1970 to C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a Florida banker and long-time friend of the President's.

Written under the direction of assistant chief counsel Terry Lenzner, the report is the first section of a comprehensive report on the controversial Hughes-Rebozo money.

It explores the theory that a "quid pro quo" link did exist between those payments and efforts by Hughes to expand his hotel and gambling holdings in Las Vegas.

According to the report, Hughes and Robert P. Maheu, then his chief Nevada lieutenant, chose Richard Danner, a Hughes employee and former Miami, Fla., city manager, to act as political liaison with the government.

Danner was a friend of both Nixon and Rebozo and, the report notes, became the courier who delivered the $100,000 to Rebozo in cash.

Danner told the committee that after a series of secret meetings from which antitrust attorneys were excluded, Mitchell on March 19, 1970, approved the Dunes purchase.

The report said that after Danner returned from one such meeting, "Maheu set in motion one of the two $50,000 contributions to Rebozo."

It quoted Maheu as saying there were "certain political obligations that had to be met" as the result of the Danner trip and that a Hughes lawyer had been ordered to pay out the money.

"The essential point here is that Maheu remembered a clear connection between the Danner-Mitchell meetings and the contribution to Rebozo," the committee report said.

"I remember telling Danner that we had authority from Hughes to make a commitment to help the administration in some of the congressional races they'd be interested in," Maheu testified.

"But I don't know to this day if he took the matter up with Mitchell or someone else," he said.

Mitchell, Nixon's presidential campaign manager in 1968 and for part of 1972, has denied ever discussing campaign contributions. Danner also has said he only discussed the antitrust matter with Mitchell.

In the 1973 cases, the court rejected the application of a national standard defining punishable obscenity and said instead that prosecutors may move against films and other material on the basis of community standards.

The ambiguity of community standards produced confusion in courts, and the Supreme Court did little to clarify it today.

In the Georgia case, the court noted that its 1973 decision suggested that material showing or describing normal or perverted sexual intercourse, masturbation, and excretory functions was within the range of punishable obscenity.

"While this did not purport to be an exhaustive catalog of what juries might find patently offensive, it was certainly intended to fix substantive constitutional limitations, deriving from the First Amendment . . .," Rehnquist said.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could make a millionaire every six to eight weeks under lottery rules expected to be announced today.

Under the prize structure to be filed today with the secretary of state, about 25,000 winners will qualify every week for $20 to $300,000, according to The Plain Dealer.

The Lottery Commission had planned to withhold details of the prizes to gain maximum publicity but learned details would have to be made public today when they are filed, the newspaper said.

Drawings are to be held every Thursday, starting 10 days after the first tickets are sold, the commission is expected to announce.

A single three-digit number and a double three-digit number will be picked in the drawing. If any of the series of five three-digit numbers on a player's ticket matches the single number, the player wins $20 and becomes eligible for the million-dollar drawing.

One hundred finalists are expected to share in prizes of $1,000 to $1 million in the drawing. The millionaire would receive $50,000 a year for 20 years.

If the double number matches any two ticket numbers, the holder can win $500 or $1,000 or be entered in the "Buckeye 300," depending on the color coding of the boxes in which the numbers fall.

High court rules on porno juries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled that juries do not have unlimited authority to decide what is obscene in their communities.

A unanimous court determined that the film "Carnal Knowledge" is not obscene and overturned the conviction of a Georgia theater operator who showed it.

In a related 5-4 decision, the court ruled in a California case that a brochure advertising "The Illustrated Presidential Report on the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography" was hard-core material which can be banned under a federal mail law.

Justice William H. Rehnquist, who wrote the court's opinions in both cases, said guidelines delivered in five landmark cases a year ago were not meant to give juries absolute freedom to ban movies and other materials as obscene.

He recalled that the court last year "made it plain that . . . no one will be subject to prosecution for the sale or exposure of obscene materials unless these materials depict or describe patently offensive hardcore sexual conduct."

The court viewed "Carnal Knowledge," a film which gained wide critical acclaim, and concluded that it did not "depict sexual conduct in a patently offensive way," Rehnquist said.

"While the subject matter of the picture is, in a broader sense, sex, and there are scenes in which sexual conduct including 'ultimate sexual acts' is to be understood to be taking place, the camera does not focus on the bodies of the actors at such times," he continued.

In the 1973 cases, the court rejected the application of a national standard defining punishable obscenity and said instead that prosecutors may move against films and other material on the basis of community standards.

Major measures occupy Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxes,

impeachment and concern over the spread of nuclear weapons to the Middle East occupy the attention of Congress this week.

The Senate is resuming debate on tax cut and tax reform measures but chances of proposals passing appear to have evaporated.

House activities include decisions on witnesses for the impeachment inquiry against President Nixon and hearings on whether nuclear power aid to Egypt and Israel could lead to development of nuclear weapons in that region.

Opponents of action on the tax proposals succeeded through filibustering and parliamentary maneuvers in preventing any substantive votes on the issues last week.

They have agreed to permit a roll call test today on a package proposal calling for a $6.6-billion income tax cut and a variety of reform measures that would raise $7 billion annually within four years from corporations and wealthy persons.

But even sponsors of the package, led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., concede it probably will be defeated.

Kennedy then hopes to break the package down into its components and get separate votes, starting with the reform provision to repeal the 22 cent oil depletion allowance.

Even if this succeeds, the different items still could be filibustered. And many oil state senators stand ready to talk at length to protect the depletion allowance.

The tax cut and tax reform measures are being offered as amendments to a debt ceiling bill, which must be sent to President Nixon by the end of the week, or the ceiling will drop to the permanent figure of $400 billion. This is $75 billion below the present debt and would cause serious financial problems for the government.

Because of the deadline, Senate leaders are expected to call off the fight on a tax cut and tax reform at some point and move to send the unamended debt ceiling bill to the White House.

The Senate is scheduled to pass today a continuing resolution to provide funds for all government departments, pending action on the appropriations bills for fiscal 1975, which begins July 1.

Find shock probation does work

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Six per cent fewer parolees return to prison for violation of shock probation in Ohio than for violation of probation after longer jail terms, an Ohio State University study reveals.

The authors of the study, Associate Professor Harry E. Allen and researcher Nancy J. Beran, conclude tentatively that shock probation generally has been successful here and should be continued.

About one in four persons sentenced to prison in the state is granted shock probation today, nearly nine years after Ohio adopted the experiment as an option for judges, Allen and Beran say.

The theory is that convicted felons who are not hardened criminals may benefit more from short exposure to prison than from long terms.

The study notes that shock parolees are likely to be persons with family or community ties who also have good prospects for employment.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUFF
AP Television Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It seems weird in this disc jockey day and age, but there's a morning radio show here featuring a 10-piece band. A live one.

It's part of WSM's "Walking Crew," the local talk and music effort that starts its 75-minute version of reveille weekday mornings at 7:45 a.m.

The proceedings, held in a surprisingly unguarded studio where unwary visitors are apt to find themselves part of the day's act, has been on WSM for 22 years.

Williams does news and country music items and Bibb, the sporting scene. Each does his thing in an off-hand conversational way. It's not the frantic Manhattan approach by a long shot.

As WSM-AM's General Manager Len Hensel puts it, "The show is what we play for the Mochicians."

What makes this tribe a bit unusual — at least for those who think Nashville means only country music — is that its music is decidedly uncountry.

Last Monday, for example, the wares included "Bluesette," "I Cover The Waterfront," "Sing" from "Sesame Street" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

The contemporary approach aims at Nashville's urbanites, not the country fans WSM programs for at night, and the ratings show it works well, Hensel says.

"The show is nostalgic, but it's more than that," adds Teddy Bart, 38, the Pennsylvania-born host of the "Walking Crew" since 1972. "It's a tradition."

The tradition currently includes a different local vocalist each day, plus Bill Williams, southern editor for Billboard magazine, and John Bibb, sports editor of the Nashville Tennessean.

Williams does news and country music items and Bibb, the sporting scene. Each does his thing in an off-hand conversational way. It's not the frantic Manhattan approach by a long shot.

Members of the band, all on staff at WSM, also chip in, razzing and being razzed, the give-and-take more akin to a studio rehearsal than an on-air show.

The humor is a shade corny at times, but it's not hillbilly. On one show, for example, band pianist Joe Layne was chided for trying to sell autographed pictures of Dizzy Gillespie at a country music show.

The "Walking Crew" isn't a low cost venture by any means. Hensel says it costs close to $2,000 a week to air and it's on 52 weeks a year.

Transit vote set minus planning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is less than five months until a billion-dollar mass transit proposal goes to Los Angeles voters, who still have no idea what they'll be asked to approve.

Planners hired by the Southern California Rapid Transit District began drafting a proposal 20 months ago, but their conclusions are only vaguely defined.

They say that buses would serve only as interim modes of transportation in auto-oriented Los Angeles until the county could establish some sort of rail system. But what form that long-range system should take is the mystery.

Exclusive bus-lanes in the city and on the freeways are fine, but limited, the planners said. Los Angeles' ultimate transportation needs are for a stationary rail system.

Voters will be asked to write a blank check for an $8 billion to $10 billion proposal which may range from something like San Francisco's BART network to a transportation idea not yet off some designer's drawing board.

Legislation passed last year provides that the November ballot issue be divided into two separate proposals. If both pass, a one-cent countywide sales tax increase would be implemented. Half of each cent would provide local funds—which the federal government would supplement with 80 per cent of costs—for transit changes. The other half-cent would be plowed into existing bus systems to continue the county's 25-cent fare pilot program through mid-1978.

The Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County will dispatch trash and maintenance crews at roadside parks in the county and at the rest areas on I-71. According to Gene Fitzpatrick, garage superintendent, his men will be patching and repairing the berm on Ohio 729-S, and cleaning drainage ditches on Ohio 41-S, U.S. 22-E, and the CCC Highway-E. They will be sealing cracks on Ohio 38, and replacing guardrail posts throughout the county.

Estimates are that the ballot measures would provide about $200 million in annual additional revenues, with the promise of more federal funds. But the challenge now facing the district is to get the proposal on the ballot. That will require approval by the Southern California Association of Governments, which meets July 11 to act on it.

And the county Board of Supervisors has an Aug. 23 deadline for putting the transit measure before county voters.

But a source says the two groups are at odds, with the association fearing the costly permanence of a fixed rail proposal but apparently not satisfied with a greatly improved and expanded bus system, which the supervisors favor.

The district's proposal has created misunderstanding among city and county agencies, including Mayor Tom Bradley's office.

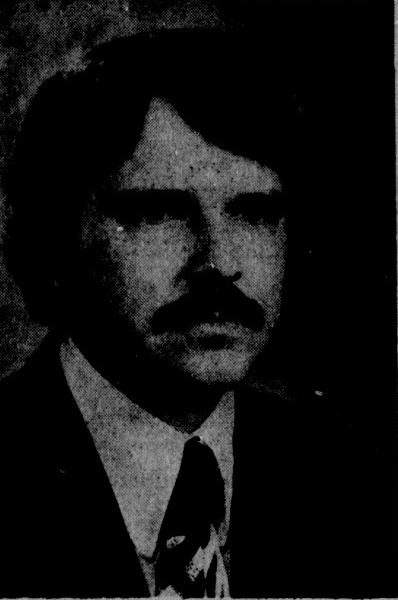

Bradley favors a 70-mile initial rail system, but the City Council torpedoed that program and told the district to "begin ... immediately" developing a long-range transit system proposal.

Business news

Elliott promoted at Cudahy Foods

The Cudahy Foods Co., 532 Dayton Ave., has announced the promotion of Jack Elliott to the position of national sales coordinator for Italian cheese.

Elliott, who joined the Cudahy Foods Co. in 1961 as a salesman, spent three years as southeastern regional sales manager at the Harrodsburg, Ky. division. He returned to the Washington C.H. plant in 1968 and received the promotion to national sales coordinator earlier this month.

Originally from Bloomingburg, Elliott and his wife, the former June Overly, have a four-year-old daughter, Jodi. They reside at 178 Hawthorne Drive.

Dewey A. Sheidler announced today that his life insurance planning service office has moved to room 209 in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building on Court Street.

Sheidler said he will be observing an open house at the new business location through July 11.

Study shows re-examinations

CHICAGO (AP) — Middle age is a time when a lot of people start thinking about doing something for themselves, and that's not all bad, says a psychiatrist.

During middle age, people evaluate their achievements, think about the time they have left and what they want to accomplish for themselves, he said.

This selfish response is not unhealthy, "depending on what you do," according to the psychiatrist, Dr. Francois Alouf.

Alouf, director of psychiatric education at Northwestern University medical school, presented his observations to newsmen at a preview screening of a Public Broadcasting Service program on "Male Menopause: The Pause that Refreshes."

Narrated by actor Norman Windom, the program touches on the problems created by a youth-oriented culture such as reaching a job plateau, getting gray and flabby, not being able to perform sexually and other middle-age anxieties.

Some men attempt to adapt to middle age by denying that they're getting older, Alouf said. These men continue to try to compete with younger men and seek to cover up their physical changes, he added.

"Middle age is mostly a state of mind," the psychiatrist observed. The changes vary from individual to individual and some men may even increase their sexual activity during middle age, he said.

Alouf said the PBS program incorporates "just about everything we know about the middle years," and noted that only in the past few years have scientific studies of this age span been conducted.

He said the program is likely to produce anxiety in persons approaching middle age or those who already are there. He was critical because it does not emphasize the positive aspects of this period and what can be done to cope.

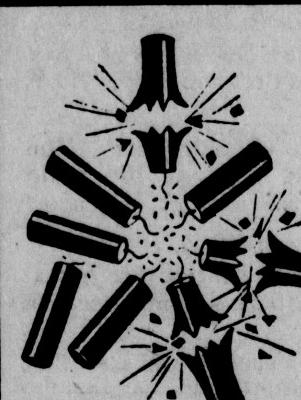

Girl returns home after seeing prince

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Laura Jo Watkins is back home after a trip to London at Prince Charles' invitation and a spokesman for her family discounts talk of a romance between the pair.

"No, Laura Jo didn't say that they would be seeing each other again," the spokesman said Sunday. Miss Watkins, the 20-year-old daughter of Rear Adm. and Mrs. James D. Watkins, met Prince Charles at a reception here in March while he was on a stopover during a Royal Navy training cruise.

STUFFED SQUASH

From Jewish cuisine.

4 medium zucchini, split lengthwise

Peanut oil

1 pound lean ground beef

2 slices white bread, cut fine

2 teaspoons salt

1½ teaspoons sugar

½ teaspoon cinnamon

Dash of pepper

½ cup water

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Minced parsley

Using the tip of a sturdy spoon, scoop out and reserve seeded centers from squash.

Place zucchini shells in a shallow baking pan, hollow side up.

Chop seeded centers fine; cook gently in 2 tablespoons peanut oil until soft — about 5 minutes.

In a medium mixing bowl work together the beef, bread, salt, sugar, cinnamon and pepper.

Mix water and lemon juice and add to meat mixture with the cooked seeded centers; mix well; spoon into squash shells.

Brush uncovered cut sides of squash with oil. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven about 45 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley.

Makes 4 servings.

Miss Kuhlwein becomes bride of Thomas J. Palmaccio

Miss Diane Kuhlwein became the bride of Thomas Joseph Palmaccio at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Gerald Wheat and Fr. David Francoeur performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kuhlwein of 204 Clearview Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Palmaccio of Lunenburg, Mass.

Candelabra and arrangements of spring flowers graced the altar. The aisles were marked with satin bows and flowers.

Mr. Garrell Leasure, organist, presented a half-hour of pre-nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Kuhlwein chose a formal gown of white silk organza designed with high duchess neckline and short puffed sleeves. The form-fitting bodice was banded at the waist with white satin ribbon. The A-line silhouette skirt flowed into a chapel length train and was accented down the center back with a wide panel of Schiffli embroidery which also accented the front of the gown from the neckline to the hem. Her Venice lace Juliet headpiece featured tiers of silk illusion veiling with lace edge. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, snow crystal Fuji pompons and lavender daisies with white satin ribbon showers.

Mrs. Doug Davis of Columbus, matron of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Donald Bullis of Boston, Mass., Miss Belinda Ramey, Miss Jo Shoemaker, Miss Janelle Donahue, all of Washington C.H., wore identical gowns of white silk organza with embossed flowers in multi-colors of the rainbow. They were designed with a Sabrina neckline with flounced edge, fitted bodice with arched waistline and full gathered skirts which featured a double flounce at the hemline. Lavender ribbon encircled the waistline of the matron of honor's gown, and blue ribbon was on the bridesmaids.

The attendants each carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers accented with daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Kuhlwein chose for her daughter's wedding a sleeveless light pink double knit princess style floor-length gown with shocking pink long-sleeved jacket. Mrs. Palmaccio, the groom's mother, wore a sleeveless blue double knit floor-length gown with matching open-weave long sleeved jacket. Both wore wrist corsages of assorting spring flowers.

Richard Demers of Lunenburg, Mass., served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Donald Bullis of Boston, Mass., Joseph Henry of Columbus, Guy Naylor and Chris Essman, both of Washington C.H. Hostesses for the reception which

Canning techniques

Home canning is enjoying a record high burst of popularity in Fayette County, if questions and bulletin requests coming to the County Extension Office are any indication.

Numerous news articles and radio programs are aimed to impress upon people that proper techniques are a must to prevent spoilage and botulism, a deadly toxin.

Unlike spoilage, which has a characteristic odor, botulism has no odor or change in the foods appearance. It is not killed at boiling temperatures.

3 cited in auto mishaps

Three persons were charged with traffic offenses, stemming from accidents investigated by Washington C. H. police officers over the weekend.

An accident occurred at the intersection of Temple and Hind streets at 12:26 p.m., between cars driven by Zollie E. Barnett, 45, Covington, Ky., and David E. Fowler, 19, of 410 N. North St.

The Barnhart vehicle incurred moderate damage and its driver was charged with disobeying a traffic signal. The Fowler auto was damaged slightly, according to police.

A hit-skip occurred at The Farm,

Columbus Avenue, at noon Sunday. A parked car owned by Joseph E. Morgan, of Sabina, was damaged slightly when struck by an unidentified auto in the rear taillight area, police reported.

A hit-skip also occurred on Rose Avenue, near the Forest Street intersection, at 12:57 a.m. Sunday.

A parked car owned by William E. Alledge, 113 E. Elm St., was struck in the rear by an unknown driver. Damage was slight, police reported.

A car driven by Phillip B. Collie, 22, of 1022 John St., struck a parked car owned by Daniel W. Osborne, 221

Delaware, while Collie traveled south on Delaware Street at 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Moderate damage was reported to both vehicles and Collie was charged by police with reckless operation.

An accident involving cars driven by Donald E. Thornton, 26, Bloomingburg and John A. Goodwin, 34, Jamestown, occurred at 11:45 a.m. Saturday, at the intersection of S. Fayette Street and Kennedy Avenue.

Goodwin was charged by police with not maintaining an assured clear distance ahead after skidding on wet pavement and striking the Thornton vehicle in the rear.

Economy ignored good forecasts

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the past few weeks there has developed very little evidence to support the consensus forecast of a sharp drop in price increases and interest rates by the end of the year.

And, since this is a repeat of the 1973 scenario, when prices seemed to defy the efforts and best intentions of those who claimed to understand what was going on, there exists today a feeling of abandonment to fate.

The federal government has largely withdrawn from direct intervention in the marketplace as a whole, although it continues sporadically its attempts to cover over the big problems, such as the threatened bankruptcy of cat-

The forecasts come with the old frequency but are quickly assaulted by facts. Private and government forecasters alike are beginning to find themselves out on a limb, their pleas of "wait 'til next month" sounding too shrill to be believed.

Last week the prime rate rose, against the forecasts, of course. It was foreordained by a sharp rise in business borrowing at the big New York banks, again in defiance of the past year.

The latest consumer price index, for May, also showed an increase in the rate of increase, to an annual rate of 13.2 per cent. It meant that consumer prices in May were 10.7 per cent over a year ago.

What does that mean in terms of wages? For some, of course, it means automatic increases because their incomes are tied to the cost of living, rising via escalator clauses to the same degree.

For millions of others, however, it means a further decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar they take home. They can buy less and less with that dollar unless they get pay raises. And so, trouble brews on that front.

In fact, the forecasts that seem most likely to be realized are those now emanating from every direction that labor will become increasingly aggressive, after a mysterious hiatus during the past year.

Medical bills are growing faster now than earlier this year. Clothing and used car prices are accelerating. Mortgage rates are rising, although the consequences are academic, since the housing market has all but expired.

What is bothering some economists and government officials now is a matter that should have been appreciated much earlier: Whether prices can be controlled at all for many months more.

It is one thing to control domestic prices through proper fiscal and monetary measures. It is an entirely different matter when the prices to be controlled are set abroad.

Both energy and food are world markets, with world demand setting the price. Since the United States imports both — as well as exports both — it cannot escape the inflationary impact.

Leningrad cellist wins competition

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Peremanshchikov of Leningrad won the cello competition at the Fifth International Tchaikovsky Music Competition with James Craigie of Nashville, Tenn., sharing fourth place.

Second prize went to Ivan Monigetti of the Soviet Union, Hirofumi Kanno of Japan was third and Seta Baltayan of Bulgaria shared fourth.

No fifth prize was awarded by the jury, Tass said, and sixth place was shared by Angela Schwartz of Columbus, Ohio and Ivan Chiffilo of France.

Steven Don of Englewood, N.J., was one of four cellists who did not place but were awarded diplomas.

Sabina woman hurt at circus

A Sabina woman injured her leg at the Lewis Brothers Circus at the Washington Senior High School grounds, when she fell leaving the bleachers.

Phillis Hartley, 32, was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

The mishap occurred at 9:08 p.m. Saturday.

Dayton man was bitten by a St. Bernard dog while attempting to break up a dogfight Saturday.

Walter T. Cole, 39, was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated and released. The incident occurred at the Fayette County Fairgrounds, in the sheep barn.

Perk to seek help for Cleveland mall

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk said Sunday he would seek federal money to help in a $10 million project to extend the downtown mall and build a multilevel parking garage.

The proposed development would extend the convention center mall to the Cuyahoga County courthouse, over the railroad tracks and freeway to the top of the proposed garage east of Cleveland Stadium, the mayor said.

Police seek identity of traffic victim

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Police were seeking the identity today of a man killed when his car slammed head-on into a bus downtown.

The crash Sunday injured the bus driver and nine passengers, including Ferrell Williams, 26, of Cleveland who was hospitalized in fair condition with head injuries.

CANDIDATE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL — George C. Smith, Franklin County prosecuting attorney, who is a candidate for Ohio Attorney General addressed some 50 guests at the home of James A. Kiger Saturday. Smith said he was appalled by the fact that the budget for the attorney general has mushroomed to $14 million per year from some $4 million a few years ago. He stressed that this figure must be reduced. Shown with Smith in the photograph are Howard Wright, at left, Mrs. Charles Wagner, and Kiger.

Three area pilots certified

Two representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration visited the Fayette County Airport Saturday afternoon and certified three area pilots for new safety flying requirements.

Otis Hess, Gene Pfaff and John Woodmansee, airport director, took off in the stormy weather for a flight proficiency check and all three were certified. Pfaff's son, who was visiting here from his home in Texas, was also certified.

The flight check included a number of difficult maneuvers which were made even more difficult by the foreboding weather. All pilots will have to have the certification by November of this year.

Leo Wonderly, one of the representatives, checked out the pilots while the other, Bob Buremski, was checking the planes and equipment.

There was a constant flow of informal discussion of the common problems of the non-commercial pilots, especially those flying very light planes. It is becoming increasingly difficult for the private pilot to enter large airports.

Electric cars given tryout

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The cars worked on Sunday at the Robert Childs home in Olmsted Falls went "hmmmmmm" instead of "boing-boing," but it was batteries that made the wheels go around, not gasoline.

Childs is president of the Electric Vehicle Association of Ohio and held an association workshop which drew nine of the volkswagens and 40 drivers.

Gun show draws large turnout despite weather

In spite of the rain, more than 800 exhibitors set up shop at the Fairground this weekend for the June gun show and flea market.

Although attendance was slightly below normal, the traffic problem was greater than usual because cars could not be parked in many areas of the grounds. According to Kenny Craig, president of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association, 1,420 cars parked on the grounds and hundreds more lined nearby streets.

This month's competition was won by Gary Davis, of Bainbridge. The classification was for the best dovetailed arrow or spear point, and Davis presented a fine four-inch spear point of multi-colored flint.

Childs said that one major drawback of the electric vehicles is the attention they attract. "I'm always scared to death that somebody's going to drop a set of car keys across the battery terminals and short everything out," he said.

Beyond that, he added, "you've got to know what you can do with them and how far you can go."

Beyond that, he added, "you've got to know what you can do with them and how far you can go."

The representatives and pilots exchanged ideas on planes, equipment, safety programs and various other matters.

Woodmansee was named by the officials as the area's district safety counselor.

Members of the Fayette County Pilots Association and airport staff found the activities and discussions very helpful and were pleased that the FAA has renewed its interest in the pilot of the light private plane.

Braves fall twice to Cincy

Reds regain second place

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Tony Perez was standing at home plate, waiting to lead off the 12th inning for the Cincinnati Reds.

It was the second game of Sunday's long doubleheader against Atlanta and Braves' catcher Johnny Oates was wrestling with reliever Joe Niekro's knuckleball. Perez laughed.

"You're having trouble catching it," he said, "and I'm supposed to hit it?"

Then the Reds' slugger did exactly that, sending a Niekro butterfly fluttering into the center field seats for a 2-

1 Cincinnati victory and a sweep of the doubleheader.

In the opener, Roger Nelson won his first game since May 26, 4-2, with Joe Morgan contributing three hits, including a two-run homer.

The sweep returned the Reds to second place in the National League's West Division 6½ games behind Los Angeles. It also cooled off the Braves, who dropped three straight against the Red after winning eight of nine.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Montreal trimmed St. Louis 4-2, Chicago rapped Pittsburgh 7-3, Houston took San Diego 8-2 and Los Angeles topped San Francisco 4-3. New York's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

Cubs 7, Pirates 3

Bill Madlock's tie-breaking single keyed a four-run eighth inning that gave the Cubs their victory over the Pirates.

Astros 8, Padres 2

Home runs by Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson and pitcher Claude Osteen's two-run double led Houston Astros to an 8-2 rout of the San Diego Padres.

Expos 4, Cards 2

Ninth-inning singles by Tim Foli and Ken Singleton drove in the tie-breaking runs and moved Montreal past St. Louis.

Dodgers 4, Giants 3

The Dodgers battled from behind to defeat the Giants with Manny Mota's bunt single tying the score in the seventh inning and Ken McMullen's pinch single winning the game in the ninth.

TONY PEREZ

Unhealthy players lead Boston's 8-0 shutout

By The Associated Press

It's getting to be healthy to be unhealthy in Boston.

Rico Petrocelli, hobbled by a pulled hamstring muscle that has knocked him off third base and left him as the Red Sox' designated hitter, belted a pair of solo home runs Sunday.

And Rick Wise, recovering from tendonitis and a broken finger, pitched five solid innings in his first start in a month. The Rick-and-Rico combination, plus some other healthy hitting, powered Boston to an 8-0 rout of the Cleveland Indians and enabled the Red Sox to widen their American League East lead to 3½ games over the Detroit Tigers.

In Sunday's other games, New York beat the Tigers 4-1, Milwaukee walloped Baltimore 9-4, Kansas City defeated Oakland 4-1, California crushed Texas 10-2 and in a doubleheader, Chicago edged Minnesota 2-1 before the Twins tripped the White Sox 4-3.

Yanks 4, Tigers 1

Newly acquired Rudy May pitched a four-hitter and Bobby Murcer doubled home the tiebreaking run during a sixth-inning downpour in the Yankees' victory. Play began in a steady rain which got harder during the middle innings and never stopped, forcing postponement of the second game of the scheduled twinbill.

Brewers 9, Orioles 4

"It wasn't that much of a day," Darrell Porter shrugged. "Heck, I must've left 10 guys on base."

Actually, Porter stranded seven runners—but he unstranded three others with one swing. He belted a first-inning grand-slam off southpaw Dave McNally that started the Brewers on their way over Baltimore.

Royals 4, A's 1

Lindy McDaniel, making a rare start, retired the first 12 Oakland batters he faced and wound up with a three-hit triumph over the A's.

Angels 10, Rangers 2

Frank Robinson and Lee Stanton made it easy for California's Andy Hassler to gain his first major league victory. They hit two-run homers in the first inning and drove in three runs apiece in the stampede against Texas.

White Sox 2-3, Twins 1-4

Stan Bahnsen pitched a fourhitter while Carlos May singled home one run and scored the other on a wild pitch in Chicago's first-game victory.

In the nightcap, the Twins' Danny Thompson tripled in the seventh and scored on Steve Brye's tie-breaking single.

Colbert takes American Open

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "One thing was on my mind," Jim Colbert said.

"I wanted it all."

"I didn't care if I was second or 28th. I wanted it all and I was willing to take some chances to get it."

The chipper, gutsy little guy got it all—the title and a $34,000 first place check—on the second hole of a four-man sudden-death playoff in the $170,000 American Golf Classic.

He got it with a routine par five after Ray Floyd's bold bid for a birdie turned into a bogey instead.

"I was playing for birdie," Floyd said of the wind-blown third shot that caught the bank of a pond guarding the green and set up the bogey that let Colbert get away with the fourth title of his career Sunday.

Moses Malone recruitment being probed

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — National Collegiate Athletic Association investigators are probing the recruiting tactics used by hundreds of colleges to acquire the services of schoolboy basketball sensation Moses Malone.

Malone reportedly told the investigators that one coach offered him $1,000 under the table to sign.

The 6-foot-11 center signed a grant-in-aid last Thursday to attend the University of Maryland.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch reported in its Sunday editions that Malone had given the NCAA investigators some damaging information on the recruiting methods of at least two schools. The newspaper said it had learned that Maryland wasn't one of them.

The NCAA investigators, Lynn Nance, a former FBI agent, and Bill Hunt, a former Texas sportswriter and a graduate of Southern Methodist University law school, arrived here Friday—just 24 hours after Malone had signed the Maryland grant-in-aid.

Nance and Hunt spent most of Friday morning with Malone and his mother, Mrs. Mary Malone, the Times-Dispatch said.

Malone refused to disclose anything about the conversation, just saying, "it was personal stuff."

Mrs. Malone, however, told friends about the conversation and one told the newspaper that, "Mrs. Malone said one coach offered Moses $1,000, which would be delivered to him though an intermediary. She also said that another coach provided him with a rental car for a period of time."

Haynie crowned in Ladies PGA

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Sandra Haynie, the second highest money winner in women's pro golf history, probably never will forget the 17th hole at Pleasant Valley Country Club. But she can smile about it now as the 20th Ladies PGA champion.

The 31-year-old Texan, whose low key belies her fierce competitiveness, survived another brush with near disaster on the 17th Sunday and won the LPGA for the second time with a 72-hole score of 288, four under par.

"This is truly a championship golf course, but I'll think of that hole for a long while," Miss Haynie said. "That hole has cost me two tournaments here and it came close to doing it again."

Nursing a one-stroke lead entering the final round, she teed off in the rain and birdied three of the first four holes. She added another on the 11th green and was six strokes ahead of runner-up JoAnne Carner, a playing partner.

Smith-Conners rivalry sizzles

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The keen personal rivalry between Stan Smith and Jimmy Connors sizzled with fresh sparks today as the great and near-great began the two-week grind in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The brassy, 21-year-old Connors, who shares the No. 1 U.S. ranking with Smith, bristled at the suggestion that Smith, in winning over the weekend at Nottingham, might finally have shaken the "Connors jinx."

"Sure, he beat me at Nottingham in the quarter-finals," Connors said. "So what? Our matches are like the ocean tide; they flow and ebb. I beat him four times and now he comes back to beat me once."

"What does that prove? Nothing. Next time could be my time. That's the way it works."

Smith's triumph at Nottingham on grass after a somewhat lack-luster season caused London's legal books to shorten odds on the towering Californian from an original 7-1 to 9-2.

"I'm excited," Colbert said. "I'm real excited. I've won before, but this is my first on national television. It's my first on a really great golf course. It's just great. Everything is great."

Colbert, 33, had to make a scrambling par on the last hole of regulation play, chipping over a bunker to within about 18 inches of the hole, to tie Floyd, a bitterly disappointed Forrest Fesler and veteran Gay Brewer for the top spot at 281.

That's one-over-par on the unyielding, 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course, a monster of a layout turned even longer and tougher by gusty, blustery winds, chill temperatures and rough still wet and heavy from heavy rains.

It was the first time since the Colonial Invitational of 1971 that a regular tour event—not including the U.S. Open—had been won at plus-par figures. And the four-man playoff was the largest since the Kemper Open of 1971.

Fesler and Brewer dropped out with bogeys on the first extra hole, Brewer three-putting and Fesler failing from a bunker.

The victory lifted Colbert's season's earnings to $73,000. Each of the playoff losers received $13,147.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1 ♦ Dble 4 ♠
Pass 5 ♦ Pass 6 ♦

Here is a remarkable hand played by Italy and Sweden in the 1967 European championship. It features exceptional bidding and exceptional play.

The Swedish North-South pair got to six diamonds on the sequence shown. South opened with a diamond and, after the Italian West doubled and North leaped to four spades, retreated to five diamonds.

North imaginatively raised to six, reasoning that South simply had to be void of spades to remove four spades to five diamonds. On that basis, thought North, his hand had much greater value than it appeared to have on the surface — and he backed his judgment by bidding six.

West (Bellentani) was of course surprised by his opponents' vigorous bidding — considering the enormous high-card strength he had—but he recognized that the slam undertaking must be largely based on distribution.

Accordingly he passed six diamonds, which was certainly the prudent thing to do, but he then came forth with the extraordinary opening lead of the king of diamonds!

No truer arrow was ever shot! Declarer ruffed two hearts in dummy but then had to lose two heart tricks to go down one.

Had Bellentani made any opening lead other than a trump, South would have made the slam quite easily. He would have ruffed three hearts in dummy and his only loser would have been a heart.

Bellentani surely had the courage of his convictions when he elected to lead the king of trumps... Undoubtedly many players holding the West hand would also have thought of leading this card, but not many would actually have done so. Perhaps that's why the Italians won the championship that year.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Change of Climate for Asthma?

We live in an area where the climate is particularly damp and our 5-year-old son shows signs of asthma.

We are willing to move to any part of the country if it will help him. Are there any places where an asthmatic can find relief?

Mrs. E. N. N., Mo.

Many families have impulsively uprooted themselves and moved into a new geographic area for this reason.

Undoubtedly, a dry climate without wide swings of temperature is considered beneficial. But unfortunately, this is not always the only answer to the complex problem of asthma.

Families who dislocate themselves from their business and social lives may be overwhelmed with disappointment when they find there is no change in the condition of the asthmatic.

It is much wiser to test out new areas for a reasonable length of time before taking such a decisive step.

There are many new and exciting drugs on the horizon which are beneficial to the asthmatic. Some are used as a preventative. Others are used to stop an attack, or modify it.

Presbyterian Church faces money pinch

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church today grappled with a severe financial squeeze that has drained its reserves and crimped its operations.

With reserve capital exhausted in deficit spending in the last three years to cope with shrinking income and even to meet reduced budgets, the church now faced the necessity of living on current receipts.

This was the uncertain economic picture for the 2.8-million-member denomination as its governing assembly went into the eighth day of a 10-day meeting.

Among the 725 voting delegates, the jolting financial plight, unveiled by budget officers, was a main and troubling concern.

"It's a very painful, very serious situation," said the Rev. Daniel Little of New York, a staff budget officer. Church income has plummeted 35 percent since 1972 and was down another 13.5 percent for the first of this year. National mission budgets dropped from $40 million to the current $32 million in that period, propped up by use of reserves.

But these were gone now or committed, and a budget section has said the church must cut its national budget another 25 percent for 1975 to $26 million, down $7 million.

Retardation levy approved for ballot

Day Camp funds OK'd by commission

Two major items of business were handled by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning. Both concerned the financing of proposed community programs.

The requests came from Jack Sommers, who spoke on behalf of the Fayette County Day Camp Program, and from Mrs. Frank Weade of the Board of Mental Retardation. Sommers requested funds from the commissioners. Mrs. Weade asked only that the commission certify a proposed tax levy for consideration on the November ballot.

The commissioners heard a request from Sommers, of the county extension office, for $891 to complete financing of the Fayette County Day Camp Program. The request was $96 higher than the appropriation granted by the commissioners last year, and Sommers explained that the increase could be attributed to an increase of some 10 per cent in the cost of food and an increase in the cost of supplies.

In deference to other programs including the proposed veterans memorial, the commissioners agreed to finance $800 of the request. Total cost of the program is budgeted at $4,074, but the extension office which sponsors the day camp has received pledges of funds of $3,183, of which more than $2,700 is from non-local contributors.

Sommers said that no immediate source is seen for the $91 balance of the budget, but he hopes that some local businesses or organizations will be interested in contributing.

THE DAY CAMP serves 150 children from the Washington C.H. community by offering them a two-week day camp at a cost of $1 each. Activities at the camp includes a physical fitness program, discussions of hygiene and personal appearance, arts and crafts, one meal and one snack each day and as much fun as possible.

The program will include 50 youngsters during each of three two-week camps. The first will be held at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church beginning July 8. Two others will be held at Eastside School in subsequent weeks. The camp will meet four days each week.

Other contributors are the church and school which have offered use of their facilities without charge; the U.S. Drug Administration, $588 for food; the Ohio State University Work-Study Program, $1,800 for salaries of the directors; the Ohio 4-H Foundation, $300; the Teaching Cooperative Extension Service, $100 for supplies; and the extension office, $65 for mileage for the staff. The participants will pay a total of $150.

THE COUNTY board of mental retardation requested that the commissioners certify for the November ballot a proposed .65 mill increase in the operating levy.

Sexual battery filed against local resident

A Washington C.H. man has been charged with the sexual battery of a Washington C.H. woman, according to city police.

Zachary H. Brown, 23, of 1209 Willard St., was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers Sunday morning, after allegedly entering a 34-year-old woman's home and crawling in bed with her, while she was half asleep, investigating officers said.

The woman jumped up and ran to a neighbor's house where police were alerted, police said.

Brown is presently incarcerated in city jail in lieu of $5,000 bond and is expected to be arraigned Monday afternoon.

Jury selection under way in kidnap trial

Jury selection in the kidnapping and extortion trial of Jay Gordon, 21, was still underway in Fayette County Common Pleas Court at noon today.

Gordon was one of three men arrested by police and sheriff's departments in connection with an alleged kidnapping of John A. Whiteside, Snowhill Rd., from the parking lot at the Armco Steel Corp. plant here Feb. 19.

The other two charged in the incident, Kenneth E. Haley, 22, of 1135 E. Paint St., and Gordon's brother Jack Lee Gordon, 20, will be tried at a later date.

Several jurors had been seated at noon.

Judge Evelyn Coffman is presiding.

The request was made in order that with voter approval the board can expand its programs to include more children in the present program and begin an adult program.

The commissioners certified the request so that the board can approach the voters by placing the millage increase on the ballot.

Four escape injury after gas explosion

A gas explosion completely destroyed a motor home valued at $11,000, by blowing out the windows and walls, but its four occupants were uninjured, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported today.

Deputies said the explosion occurred at the intersection of Ohio 38 and I-71, where the mobile home was parked, when Mrs. Willard Woodring, 46, started to light the stove.

She and her 15-year-old son, Kenneth, along with Lewis and Lillian Shafer, 71, and 76 years of age respectively, had all been en route to Tampa, Fla., from Newfane, N.Y.

Group backs Sanford for presidential bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A citizens committee has been formed to seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976 for former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

Sanford, head of the party commission drafting a charter for the mid-term Democratic convention in December, said he approved of the group but that "this is not an announcement that I am a candidate."

Sanford was an aspirant for the nomination in 1972. Formation of the committee was announced Sunday by former West Virginia Gov. Joe C. Smith.

Solomon and Aristotle both sang the praises of honey.

Mayors seeking bigger role in 1976 Presidential race

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors this week is serving as a showcase for new political stars among municipal chief executives.

The Democrats especially are making plans for a bigger role in choosing their party's 1976 presidential ticket, and they wouldn't mind having a mayor on it. Included among possibilities for a vice presidential bid are mayors Kevin White of Boston and Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles.

Most of the Republican limelight is on Ralph Perk of Cleveland and Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis, Ind., both nominees for the U.S. Senate this year, and Pete Wilson of San Diego, considering a 1976 Senate race in California.

But the vast majority of the mayors are Democrats—22 out of the 30 most populous cities—and they are organizing this week to make a formal effort to exercise their political influence on the national scene in the next two years.

The Democratic caucus led by Milwaukee Mayor Henry W. Maier planned a meeting tonight to discuss methods by which the city chief executives can round up and control blocks of delegate votes to the 1976 Democratic National Convention.
